HAWAIIAN NEWS.

Rear Admiral Belknap Talks on the Subject.

"Annex the Island and Reciprocal Trade Will Double Within Twenty Years."

BOSTON, Jan. 31.—In a statement furnished to the press relative to the Hawaiian question, Rear Admiral George E. Belknap, of Brooklyn (retired) says: "To the people of the United States the present situation is of momentous interest and of vital importance. Indeed, it would seem that nature has established that group to be ultimately occupied as an out post, as it were, of the great republic on its western border, and that the time had now come for the fulfillment of such design. The group now seeks annexation to the United States. The consummation of such wish would inure to the benefit of both people, commercially and politically. Annex the islands, constitute them a territory, and reciprocal trade will double within twenty years. Let the islanders feel that they are only and forever under the folds of the American flag as part and parcel of the great republic, and a development will at once take place in the group that will at once surprise its people and the world. Not to take the fruit within our grasp and annex the group now begging us to take it would be folly indeed, a mistake of the gravest nature, both for the statesmen of the day and for the men among us of high commercial views and great enterprises. Let the British lion once get its paw upon the group and Honolulu would soon become one of the most important strongholds of Great Britain's power. Great Britain will undoubtedly propose a joint arrangement for the governments of the islands, but we want none of that entangling alliance. We have had enough of that business at Samoa. We want no joint protectorate; no occupation there by an European power; no pacific Egypt. We need the group as a part and parcel of the United States and should take what is offered us even at the hazard of war."

ENGLAND MAY PROTEST.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—It is stated this morning that the report of last night that the protest of England against the annexation of Hawaii by the United States would be presented today, was premature, but the opinion prevailed that it might be expected at any time. Lord Rosebery's statement to the Hawaiian charge at London yesterday, that England, France and Germany would protest against the annexation of Hawaii is believed to have good foundation.

Dr Mott Smith the Hawaiian representative here, expects England to protest and to protest vigorously. He thinks that there will be a concentration at Honolulu as rapidly as possible of the the naval forces of England now in the Pacific for the purpose of making a demonstration. But it is not probable, in the opinion of Dr. Smith, that this will effect the sentiment of the people in any way.

The commercial interests of Hawaii are practically all with the United States and although the sympathies of the native population, under the influence of the members of the royal family are undoubtedly with the English, still the property interest of the island will eventually control its destiny. That interest is in favor of political incorporation with the United States. In congress the situation continues to be privately discussed by members.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—It is learned on excellent authority that the British government has not instructed Sir Julian Pauncefote to protest against American interference in Hawaii as the British government does not expect the United States to take any step to which Great Britian would be likely to object.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Representative Sanford, republican, of New York, today offered for reference the following: "Resolved, By the house of representatives that it is the sense of this body that the time has now come when the preservation and extension of our commerce and the upholding of our flag demand that prompt action be taken by the government looking toward the immediate annexation of the Hawaiian islands to the United States.

BAD WRECK.

The Engineer Goes to Sleep and Neglects His Duty.

AURORA, Ky., Jan. 31.—A bad wreck occurred on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad at Wellsburg, about six miles below here last night, between a west bound coal train and an east bound work train, in which James Faulkner, colored, lost his life, and eight others of the work train were badly injured. The engineer of the work train was ordered to switch at Wellsburg, but he went to sleep and was only awakened by the headlight of the approaching freight. He had barely time to jump. Faulkner's body will be shipped to Cynthiana and the injured were sent to Covington.

REFUSED TO INDICT.

Betters and Bookmakers in St. Clair County, Ill.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 31.—The grand jury of St. Clair county, Ill., yesterday wrestled with the subject of indicting the managers, betters, bookmakers and every one connected with the East St. Louis Jockey club track. After laboring with the subject for ten hours the jurymen refused to indict any of the men connected with the racetrack. It is believed the prosecution was instigated by political opponents of prominent persons connected with the club.

CANADA NOW KNOCKS

At Our Door for Annexation to the United States.

A Large Majority of Her People Favor It as It Would Mark a New Era of Development.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Prof. Goldwin Smith, of Toronto, president of the Continental Union association, was a guest at the Victoria yesterday. He intends to call upon the president-elect, either in this city or Lakewood and if possible obtain his views as to the policy of the new administration towards Canada.

"We are hopeful," said Professor Smith, "that the Cleveland administration will meet us half way in the matter of annexation. Were the question put to a vote in the dominion I believe a large majority would be returned for a union with the United States. It must come sooner or later. The minute the union is established there will be an extraordinary development of the agricultural and mineral interests of the dominion. We are after a better market and we trust that changes will be made in the McKinley tariff law that will insure freer trade between the two countries.

"The public debt of Canada," continued Professor Smith, "is about $250,000,000 The country is poor, but has remarkable possibilities. All that is needed is American enterprise to open up the mineral and other wealth of the dominion and prosperity will result. Should Canada be annexed I believe the votes of the people would be about equally divided between the two great parties."

Professor Smith was asked if he thought Britain would be likely to oppose the annexation of the Hawaiian islands. "I don't know of any good reason why she should object," he said. "Certainly, her own policy has been to acquire all the territory she can. Witness, Africa, Egypt, Australia, and other countries But why, if the United States refused to annex San Domingo and St Thomas when there was a chance, does she desire to assume control of Hawaii? There would be an immediate necessity of an increase in the naval force there and the construction of a cable at an immense expense."

A HOWLING BLIZZARD

Is Sweeping Down Upon Us From the North.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 31.—Advices from various points throughout the northwest show that a blizzard of unusual severity prevails throughout the whole section. Wires are down along the Canadian Pacific and no reports have been received from stations on that line. All trains from the south and west are delayed and it is probable that owing to the bad drifting on the lines west of Minneapolis that they will be many hours behind the schedule time. In the northwest the high wind and snow is accompanied by extreme cold. It is 42° below this morning at Havre, 42° at Helena, 32° at Miles City and 25° at Fort Buford. The velocity of the wind in Minneapolis this morning is between twenty-eight and thirty miles an hour.

H. S. WALBRIDGE.

Death of a Prominent Citizen of Toledo, Ohio.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Jan. 31.—Horace S. Walbridge, one of Toledo's oldest residents and a prominent citizen, died early this morning after only a day's illness. He was largely interested in mines in Wisconsin, and had interests in Toledo banks and various manufacturing concerns. He was sixty-five years of age.

Fire in an Asylum.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Fire broke out in the engine room of the insane asylum at Dunning, about twelve miles from this city, at 6:30 o'clock this morning. The engine room, containing the boilers and dynamos used for heating and lighting the institution, was completely destroyed. The loss is $20,000.

Through a Bridge.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Jan. 31.—A freight train on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad fell through a bridge crossing Spring Creek, near Atherton, at 8 o'clock this morning. Nearly every man of the train crew received injuries more or less severe, but none were fatally hurt.

Ice on the Move.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 31.—The ice is now on the move on almost the entire length of the Ohio river and its tributaries. Rivermen are now talking about resumption of business, the first time it has been seriously considered for a month.

Butler's Will.

BOSTON, Jan. 31.—The will of the late General Butler has been filed. All his estates, real and personal, are left to relatives, including a wife and mother, since deceased.

A. A. Shaw, merchant, of Winchester, while drinking in Irvin's saloon, set his half-finished glass upon the counter while he talked with friends. In a spirit of jest Thomas Watkins, a young colored man, undertook to drink the remainder of the liquor, and Mr. Shaw resented it with two shots. One bullet entered Watkin's left cheek bone, and the other passed through the left ear, penetrating the skull and running down into the neck. Watkins will probably die. Shaw is at liberty on $5,000 bail.

QUEEN VIC'S SPEECH

Is Read to England's Parliament at Its Opening Session.

She Speaks of Her Relations With Foreign Powers, Government in Ireland, and Other Subjects.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—A careful search of the vaults of the house of commons this morning failed to discover any lurking Guy Fawkes, or barrels of gunpowder or dynamite bombs. Nobody expected to find any, but the ancient ceremony was performed with the same formality and ceremony as for nearly 300 years past. One of the tory members grimly remarked that it was not necessary now for Guy Fawkes to conceal themselves in the vaults of the house of commons. After the preliminary ceremonials there was the customary race for seats.

The first member to arrive was H. Seton-Karr, conservative member of parliament for Saint Helen's. Mr. Seton-Karr, who is forty years of age, and was born in India, got to the house as early as 5 o'clock in the morning. He was followed three-quarters of an hour later by Mr. J. E. Johnson-Ferguson, liberal member of parliament for Mid Leicestershire. But few of the members, however, were about at such an uncanny hour, and it was not until about a quarter to nine that the stream of legislators set in. From that time till 11 o'clock there was no let up.

Mr. J. Austin Chamberlain, the unionist M. P., drove up to the house of commons at an early hour in a cab. The young unionist, who is about thirty years old and very like his father, conveyed with him in the cab a store of silk hats, which he rapidly deposited on the third bench below the gang way on the government side, thus securing three places for the liberal unionists.

The crowd outside the house of commons was small through the morning hours, but increased toward midday. Prominent members of parliament were as usual hissed or applauded according to the sentiments of the spectators towards them.

At the opening of the session the queen's speech was read as follows:

My Lords and Gentlemen:

My friendly and harmonious relations with all the powers continue. There declarations from every quarter are favorable to the maintenance of European peace. In connection with the approaching evacuation of Uganda by the British East Africa company, I have deemed it expedient to authorize a commissioner of experience and ability to examine on the spot with adequate provisions for his safety, into the best means of dealing with the country and to report to the government. In view of recent occurrences in Egypt I have determined upon making a slight augmentation in the number of British troops stationed in that country. This measure does not indicate a change of policy or a modification of the assurances my government has given from time to time respecting the British occupation of Egypt. The khedive has declared, in terms satisfactory to me, his intention to follow hence forward the established practice of previous consultation with my governments in political affairs, and his desire to act in cordial co-operation with it.

I have observed with concern the wide prevalence of agriculture distress in many parts of the country. It is to be hoped that among the causes of the present depression some are of a temporary nature, but without doubt you will take this grave matter into your consideration and make it the subject of careful inquiry. The proclamation recently in force which placed Ireland under exceptional provisions of law have been revoked, and I have satisfaction in informing you that the condition of that country with respect to agrarian crime continues to improve.

A bill will be submitted to you on the earliest available occasion to amend the provisions for the government of Ireland. This bill has been prepared with the desire to afford contentment to the Irish people, to afford important relief to parliament, and to furnish additional securities for the strength and union of the empire.

Bills will be promptly laid before you for the amendment of the system of registration in Great Britain, for the shortening the duration of parliaments and for establishing equality in the franchise by the limitations of each elector to a single vote. There will also be proposed to you various bills bearing on the condition of labor, among which there will be measures in relation to the liability of employers, the hours of labor of railway servants and a bill to amend the law of conspiracy. Your attention will likewise be invited to measures for the further improvement of local government, including bills for the creation of parish councils, for an enlargement of the powers of the London county council, for the prevention of the growth of new vested interests in ecclesiastical establishments in Scotland and Wales, and to establish direct local control of the liquor traffic, together with other measures of public utility. I humbly commend your labors on these and other subjects to the guidance of the Almighty.

CALICO CHARLEY.

The Secretary May be Compelled to Resign a Trusteeship.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 31.—The statements of Secretary Charley Foster that the Toledo asylum bought its flour of Miller & Son, of Toledo, and not of the Harter Miller company, seems to be completely disproved by the accounts of the asylum on file in the office of the auditor of state. The name of Miller & Son does not appear in the accounts, but that of the Harter Milling company does frequently. If the asylum management bought of one firm and entered the name of another, that itself is a fraud. It is the general opinion here that even if it can be shown that Secretary Foster has committed only a technical wrong, in view of his own action in a similar case when he was governor he will be obliged to resign the trusteeship.

TO FIGHT LABOR.

The Window Glass Manufacturers Favor a Trust.

A Big Combine That Includes All the Principal Glass Factories of the Country.

FINDLAY, Ohio, Jan. 31.—The five window glass factories in Findlay, those in Fostoria, Tiffin, Celina and North Baltimore, will all doubtless go into the combine of manufacturers and jobbers which is being formed to succeed the defunct Western Window-glass association.

The consolidation is the direct work of President Hart, of the old association, of Muncie, Ind.; who has been busily engaged for some time past in fusing enthusiasm into the scheme. Contracts have been sent out to all the manufacturers, a condition of which is that it is void unless 9 per cent. of the manufacturers of the western district join. This condition, it is publicly stated, was fulfilled last week.

A meeting will be held at Chicago this week to perfect details, and application will be made within a week at the state capital of Wisconsin for a charter for the National Glass company, of Milwaukee. The new combine will include all the makers and jobbers of window glass in Pittsburg, Wheeling, Ohio, Indiana and other western states, and its purpose is to control and maintain prices. This it will do by the penalty of forfeitures deposited, otherwise capital stock subscribed.

Every factory or jobber going in will take so many shares of capital stock at $100 per share and this will be kept in the treasury, to be forfeited in case the factory or jobber it belongs to fails to keep the rules of the combine. The company will fix prices and negotiate terms with labor, but the management of plants and sale of ware will be left to the factory owners.

The combination, if it meets with the success its promoters anticipate, will be far reaching and important to consumers and all interested in window glass. Another motive for the formation of the combine is doubtless to put the factory owners in better shape to fight organized labor in the shape of the window glass workers union. Wages in this industry have been very high for years past, and the employers fought for a reduction last year. With the prospect of a reduction in the tariff the manufacturers will certainly demand a big cut in the scale next summer. It is easily seen that a combine of all the employers would be a boon in the event of a prolonged strike.

RIPE FOR REVOLUTION

Is the Condition of Affairs in Hayti.

PANAMA, via Galveston, Texas, Jan. 31.—It is whispered here that arms will be shipped on a trading schooner from New York to aid the intended revolutionary movement in Hayti and that the arms will be transferred off the Central American coast near Colon to a Haytian vessel. It is also rumored that Monsoato, a prominent Haytian who served under Crespo, is going to Jamaica to negotiate a sale of arms with Legitme. Monsoato is now in Panama and will sail for Jamaica on Friday.

The enemies of President Hippolyte claim that they are not disheartened by his recent success, which they characterize as being only temporary, and they declare that his victory for the time being has not crushed their hope of the eventual triumph of the revolutionists if they receive timely succor from the outside. They are ripe on revolution.

DIED IN THE FLAMES.

Father and Son Burned to Death in Their Own Dwelling.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Jan. 31.—The dwelling house of James Addison, at West Newbury, was burned early this morning. Mr. Addison, aged forty, and William, aged sixteen, probably perished in the flames. Addison's wife died two years ago. Since her death he has lived alone, his son being with him part of the time. There is a possibility that the son was not at home, but the probabilities are that he was. The house was in a sparsely settled locality with only a few neighbors near. How the fire originated no one knows, as when first seen by a neighbor the house was all in flames.

SMALL POX.

Ten Deaths From It and Fifty Cases at Akron, Ohio.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 31.—Small pox took a new start in Akron yesterday, six new cases of the disease being reported. Thus far nearly fifty cases and ten deaths have occurred. All the cases reported yesterday are in quarantined houses.

Police Stopped It.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 31.—The Sharp-Crosby finish fight for $500 and the light weight championship of Missouri did not come off last night on account of police interference. The fight has been postponed until next Sunday. The spot will probably be in Illinois and a rattling contest is expected.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS.

The Senate and House Take Up Important Bills.

The Illinois Central Railroad Company Files a Petition—The Sunday Closing Question.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Senator Harris has reported the senate quarantine bill with the appropriating clause omitted as a substitute for the quarantine and immigration bill passed by the house. Senator Hill objected to immediate action upon the bill as he wished time to examine it and the bill went over until tomorrow.

The senate has taken up Mr. Chandler's resolution requiring the president to transmit to the senate any convention he may make with the provisional government of Hawaii and Mr. Chandler is discussing it. Mr Chandler moved the reference of the resolution to the committee on foreign relations. Mr. Dolph made a long statement on the subject, giving details as to population commerce, etc., of the islands, and favoring annexation. Before Mr. Dolph had concluded his speech the anti-options bill was taken up in order to have the arrangement changed to taking the vote. The change made was that the first vote on the George substitute shall be taken at 3 p m. today and that on the final passage of the bill at 4.

The house has resumed the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill. The judiciary committee of the house, to which the resolution of Mr. Burrows of Michigan, providing for an investigation of the whisky trust was referred, met today, discussed the matter and referred it to a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Bynum, Ind.; Stockdale, Miss; Boatner, La; Buchanan, N. J., and Powers, of Vermont, for investigation. The sub committee have not yet decided when they will begin their inquiry.

The Illinois Central Railway company is not yet prepared to accept as final and conclusive of its rights the decision of the United States supreme court holding invalid the claim of the company to the title to the submerged lands along a large part of the water front of the city of Chicago, and accordingly this morning, soon after the court met, Mr. John N. Jewett, its counsel, filed with Clerk McKenney a petition praying the court to grant a re hearing of the celebrated lake front case. The company only lost the case by one vote, and perhaps thinks it may win over some justice to its side if it be possible to re open the case.

The world's Columbian exposition committee held a session this morning considering the Sunday closing proposition. After an hour's discussion no conclusion was reached and an adjournment was taken for one week, when the question will be definitely settled. About six members of the committee were present this morning and the prevailing sentiment among them was against the opening of the fair on Sunday.

DAILY DEATH RECORD.

Frederick Suhr, a Well Known St. Joe Township, Dies.

Yesterday afternoon the remains of Charles Cartwright, formerly employed at the Olds wagon works, arrived in this city over the Lake Shore road. Mr. Cartwright died at Cadillac, Mich., on Sunday from an attack of grip. He was aged sixty-seven years. The body was taken to the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. Virgil Burns, of 47 Hendricks street, from whence the funeral will be held tomorrow morning. Interment will be at Lindenwood cemetery The deceased was visiting his son, J. T. Cartwright, at the time of his death. Two other sons, Ed Cartwright, of Portsmouth, Ohio, and F. P. Cartwright, of Dayton, Wash., and two daughters, Mrs Edward Jackson and Mrs. Edward Smith, both of Chicago, survive him. Four brothers live in the city.

Yesterday the three-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hoffman, of No. 34 Runion avenue, died from paralysis, superinduced by diphtheria. The funeral was held at 2 p. m. today from the house, Rev. Father John Quinlan officiating This is the second child which Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman have lost from diphtheria. They have the heartfelt sympathy of a large circle of friends.

Ivalella M. Schroeder, two year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Schroeder, died of bronchitis at noon yesterday. The father is agent of the Prudential Insurance company. The funeral will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the house, and at 1:30 from St. Paul's M. E. church.

Frederick Suhr, aged sixty-nine years, died at his residence in St. Joe township at 2 o'clock this morning The cause of his death was an accident. About two weeks ago he fell from a hay stack and was ruptured. He was operated upon about a week ago and caught a severe cold, from the result of which he died. Deceased leaves a family of seven grown children. Two of the sons are employed in this city. The arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

Roan Elects a Postmaster.

WABASH, Jan. 31.—At an election for postmaster held in Roan, the third town in Wabash county, the democrats selected Dr. Baird as their choice. This method seems to be the popular one in this county. There were six contestants.

North Vernon stockholders are entering a vigorous protest against Representative Ader's bill, looking to the taxation of the assets of building associations.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Fort Wayne's City Charter Is Called Up in the House.

The Senate Passes a Bill Giving the Governor Power to Appoint the Trustees of Benevolent Institutions.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 31.—Without a dissenting voice the senate yesterday passed the bill placing the appointing power of trustees of benevolent institutions in the hands of the governor. Previous to the final passage the senate accepted amendments placing the appointment of metropolitan police commissioners in all cities where the law is operative also under the control of the governor. The fight against the bill will be made in the house.

Senator Leyden created a breeze by giving notice that eight bills which had been referred to the committee on benevolent institutions, of which committee he is chairman, had been stolen from his desk. He could not explain to what use they were to be put, and he called upon the authors to supply new copies.

Chairman Deery, of the labor committee, who visited the prison north, has returned, strongly advocating radical reforms. He found that harness was manufactured in the prison which was taken out and labeled with the name of the Columbus (Ohio) Buggy company, and that shoes made in the prison were labeled as if made by a firm in Chicago. He also found that a firm running a cooperage shop inside the prison walls has one on the outside where discharged convicts are employed at $1.25 per day, while other shops, not so fortunate, are paying $2 and $2.25 for honest labor.

The senate apportionment committee has begun work on the new apportionment bill, and Senator Stewart, chairman, says that it will be constitutional. The committee is working on the theory that 11,020 votes constitute the ideal senatorial district, and 5,510 the representative. It proposes that no senatorial district shall contain in excess of 13,224 votes nor less than 8,816, while the maximum strength of representative districts shall not go beyond 6,612 votes nor the maximum fall below 4,408. Each district will be made up of contiguous counties.

Mr. Rodabaugh, of Allen, presented a bill concerning the governing and incorporation of cities of over 35,000 people. It applies to Fort Wayne only and gives it, if passed, a charter very similar to the Indianapolis charter.

Mr. Hench introduced a memorial from the Sion S. Bass G. A. R. post, of Fort Wayne, favoring the state appropriating $50,000 for the national G. A. R. encampment. He also presented one looking to a better management of the soldiers, orphans' home at Knightstown and another from the democratic soldiers' club of Allen county opposing an appropriation for the G. A. R. encampment.

Judge Hench, representative from Allen county, was asked, last night, about the agitation over the Fort Wayne charter, and states that, until a few hours before, he had no knowledge of the bill offered yesterday by Mr. Rodabaugh. He said he had only glanced over its provisions. As to how he should vote, Judge Hench declined to hazard an opinion at this juncture.

Governor Matthews has issued his first veto in returning to the house yesterday bill No. 83. The bill is the one providing that cases in circuit courts in which members of the legislature are engaged as attorneys may be postponed from the term of court which meets while the general assembly is in session until the following term of court. The governor's only objection to the bill was that it provided for the continuance of cases from one term to the next. He said, in his message, that if the continuance was until the session of the legislature ended only, he would favor the bill. There was some discussion as to whether the bill should be taken up at once on the question of passage, notwithstanding the veto. The speaker held that the bill could not be laid over. It failed to pass over the veto—yeas 22, nays 54.

At the conclusion of the consideration of the vetoed bill, Representative Barnes created something of a sensation by moving that the vote by which house bill No. 298 (Hord's bill to protect non-union employes) failed of engrossment, be considered. The speaker held that the motion was out of order as the house was taking the vote on the passage of house bill No. 80 when the veto message came in. The bill authorizing the hospital for the insane to purchase the acre of land was passed. Representative Barnes then renewed his motion for the reconsideration of Mr. Hord's bill. After considerable discussion the motion was adopted by a vote of 53 yeas and 21 nays.

In the senate the military committee reported favorably on Senator Falk's bill to appoint a commission to locate the position of Indiana soldiers at Chickamauga and other battle fields. Senator McGregor's bill to pay the legion and independent companies that served in the rebellion was given its second reading and advanced to engrossment. Senator Boyd's bill to establish a soldiers' home was reported lost, and he offered another as a substitute, the original having had its second reading.

Senator Stuart, chairman of the senate apportionment committee, has begun the preparation of a legislative apportionment bill.

The world's fair committees are formulating a report, and will probably report favorably to an additional appropriation, though the trip to Chicago seems to have had an unfavorable influence.

COURT CULLINGS.

The Day Was Not a Good One for the News Hunter.

Charles Martin and Sarah M. High, Carl L. Rastetter and Rose Miller have been licensed to wed.

The case of Anton Wersthorn against August Baals for $195 for labor as a farm hand, is on trial before Justice Wilkinson. The defendant has an offset of $150 and also claims he does not owe plaintiff the ballance. P. W. Schadden is attorney for plaintiff and N. D. Doughman for defendant.

James E. Graham, as attorney for Paret, Davis & Co., commences suit in the superior court against the McClure Medicine company for $500 on note and prays that the medicine company may be declared insolvent and a receiver appointed.

Justice France fined John Deber $20 and costs for giving liquor to his twelve-year-old stepson, Charlie Rank.

Herman Rose was fined $10 and costs by Justice Wilkinson yesterday for employing a boy eleven years of age in his Oak Harbor factory at Edgerton, Ind., eighteen miles east of Fort Wayne, on the Nickel Plate road. The prosecution was brought under the law which forbids the employment of children under fifteen years of age around dangerous machinery. Mr. Rose represented that his boy had always been careful, but this did not excuse him.

REVIVAL MEETINGS

Being Held This Week in Different Churches of the City.

Revival services are being held this week at the Third Presbyterian church, conducted by Rev. Edward Barr, of Ligonier. His first discourse was preached last night in the lecture room and a good audience was in attendance to listen to it. Rev. Barr is an earnest and forcible pulpit speaker and sends gospel truths home to the hearts of his hearers in a convincing manner. He will remain during the week to assist Rev. Boggs, the pastor, and will preach every night except Saturday.

Mrs. Robinson, an evangelist who is assisting Rev. B. A. Sutton, the pastor, in the revival meetings at the United Brethren church, is a forcible and interesting speaker and her sermons have been productive of much good. She preaches every evening this week.

The revival services at the St. Paul M. E. church are growing in interest each evening. Rev. Johnson, an evangelist, is assisting the pastor and a number of conversions have been made by his effective oratory.

Rev. G. N. Eldridge has been holding revival meetings at the Wayne Street M. E. church for several weeks. He is an effective speaker and many souls have been led to see the error of their ways by means of his earnest, eloquent way of presenting the truth

The gospel meetings at the Grace Reformed church, which have been in progress for some time, are continued this week. Rev. Zartman is doing good work and his strong sermons have been the means of leading sinners to Christ.

Rev. S. A. Northrop has been conducting gospel services at the Baptist Tabernacle since the holidays, the meetings being held in the lecture room of the church. Revival meetings are also in progress at the Christian church under the charge of Rev. J. V. Updike.

HERE IS THE NEWS

As Found Floating Around in Different Parts of the State.

Russell Harrison, backed by the sheriff, seized upon the headquarters of the Delafield Construction company at Marion, and is now operating the Queen City street railway.

Miss Fannie Kensler, near Wheatland, attempted to cross Flat creek by walking a log, but she slipped off and was drowned. She was seventeen years old, and under betrothal of marriage.

Mrs. Herman Stern, of Logansport, made two attempts at suicide, first setting fire to her clothing, which was extinguished by a servant, and then leaving the house and throwing herself into the canal.

The insane man found running at large in Wabash county, dressed in his underclothing, has been identified as Warren McClintock, a young farmer. He wandered ten miles from home before being recaptured.

Newton Smith, of Wabash, married a girl named Benson, of Tipton county, and refused to live with her. Two brothers of the bride hunted up the recalcitrant groom and gave him such a beating that he is now confined to his bed.

George Doanes and Charles Bohannon were rivals in attentions paid to Miss Sallie Maddox, a farmer's daughter, of Knox county, with Doanes as the preferred suitor. Yesterday Mr. Doanes called upon his inammorata, and, as he was returning home, he was confronted by Bohannon, who had concealed himself in a fence corner, and was told that he must die. Immediately Bohannon began firing with a revolver, the first shot striking Doanes in the left cheek, and the second passing through his heart. Doanes fell dead. Bohannon showed no regret for his deed, and coolly sat about whittling while friends cared for the body. The assassination occurred at a point fifteen miles south of Vincennes.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

Another Suspicioned Highway Robber Arrested.

William Mattox, a Tough Man From Montpelier, Arrested This Morning by Officer Stoll.

The police court was crowded this morning, as there was another "full house" on hand.

Frank Riley, Frank Romy and Thomas Anderson were bums arrested at 6 o'clock last evening near the court house by Officers McCrory and Romy. All pleaded "not guilty" but were fined $15.50 and sent to jail. One of them was very abusive and swore at 'Squire France and the officers, particularly Officer Romy, whom he threatened to kill on sight when he got an opportunity.

William Stevens and William Manary were two vags who were arrested by Officers McCrory and Romy yesterday noon. Both pleaded not guilty. Chief Wilkinson, who was present in the court room, stated that although both young men lived in the city they were genuine vags and no good. They always acted queerly and were seldom known to work. Sheriff Clausmeier also said that he knew them and that they were no good. Both men were fined and sent to jail.

William Mattox, alias John Smith, was booked on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. About 3 o'clock this morning he was arrested by Officer Stoll and Chief Wilkinson, on Main street. The fellow was trying a number of doors and acting queerly. When accosted by the officers he acted very saucy and when asked if he was not armed with a revolver replied that he was not. Officer Stoll went up to him and jerked a big bull dog revolver out of his pocket. He mumbled some excuse and was taken off to the station. He plead not guilty this morning and said that he was on his way from Chicago to his home in Montpelier, Ind. He was fined for carrying the gun and went to jail with the rest of the gang. There is little doubt that the fellow is a housebreaker, as a pair of slippers were found in one of his pockets when he was arrested. He is known to belong to a tough gang at Montpelier.

John Bain was a suspicious character who was yesterday afternoon arrested by Officer Frank McCrory on Columbia street. The charge against Bain was that of highway robbery and it is thought that he is one of men who helped to hold up Dr. Sweringen the other night. Bain is a big fellow with slightly red hair and protested his innocence from the start. He has been employed as a brakeman on the Nickel Plate railway. He said that upon the night of the highway robbery he was at home in bed at his boarding house. The case was continued until tomorrow at 9 o'clock in order to give the prisoner an opportunity to have his witnesses present. His witnesses are Joe Brindle, caller at the Nickel Plate, Harry Brumbaugh, Charles Marks and a man named Davis.

The police are in receipt of a letter from Portsmouth, Ohio, asking for the whereabouts of Harry Willard Williams, who disappeared from his home some time ago.

THE RELIEF UNION.

Its Scope in Helping the Needy Poor of the City.

"What is the aim of the Relief Union of this city, and how far is it accomplished?"

The question is thus answered by one of its members:

"The society is for the relief of the deserving poor of the city in times of sickness or some unforeseen emergency caused by no fault of their own. And just here the question arises, who shall decide who are the deserving poor? We have a small amount of money which we hold in trust to be distributed to applicants as we may see they need—but who shall decide what they need?

"We have a superintendent who is supposed to investigate every case which is sent to the office, therefore she ought to be able to compare the merits of applicants more justly than one who has had his attention called to only a few cases. Shall she do this and help only the deserving, and these only in proportion to their needs and until the cause for their destitution is removed? Or shall she relieve every case of want that comes to her knowledge, irrespective of the cause of the destitution? The latter course would very soon empty the treasury and increase the number of paupers.

"It is not necessary to say that we do not wish to help paupers for whose support we are already taxed, yet we are often severely criticized for not assisting them by persons, who, from lack of knowledge, allow their sympathies to overrate their judgment, and who, if they would investigate the cases and seriously consider the result of indiscriminate giving, would be slow in condemning a caution which the experience of every charitable society in the country has proved to be a necessity."

NEGLECT IS FATAL.

Awful Consequences From Little Things.

A Spark Kindles the Greatest of Conflagrations.

So From Small Beginnings Come Insanity and Paralysis.

How little people realize that neglect is fatal! They do not understand that headache, loss of memory, confused mind, mental depression, dull, dizzy and bad feeling head, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, with tired and unrefreshed waking mornings, poor appetite, weakness with tired, numb, trembling or cold limbs and feeling of nervous and physical exhaustion are the sure forerunners of insanity or paralysis.

"I was weak and nervous," said Miss Pauline Roe, who resides at 331 Seventh avenue, New York City, "and finally had a stroke of paralysis. The suffering I endured was intolerable. My speech was impaired and my mouth drawn to one side and the pains in my head were maddening.

MISS PAULINE ROE.

"I used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Before I had used one bottle I felt a marked improvement, and now I feel myself well again. I recommend all troubled with nervous complaints or any similar affliction to use this really wonderful medicine."

The well known John S. Dorrance, Esq., of 154 Ellison St., Patterson, N. J., says:

"I shall be ready at any and all times to testify to the remarkable restoration to health of Miss Pauline Roe, and the wonderful effects of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy."

Mrs. James J. Guernsey, of 11 Myrtle St., Albany, N. Y., states:

"I got so very weak and numb I could hardly stand on my feet, at times could not raise my feet from the floor. My whole right side was almost useless. Then I saw an advertisement in the papers of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I sent for a bottle and before I had taken half of it I was certain it was helping me. I have taken five bottles and can truly say that the great, wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has cured me and I owe my life to it."

Use this remarkable medicine when you feel the first symptoms coming on and you can be absolutely certain of a cure. It is always best to prevent the occurrence of paralysis or insanity, and this great remedy will certainly ward it off.

The remedy is purely vegetable and harmless and druggists keep it for $1. It is the prescription and discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th street, New York, the successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and he can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

J. H. LEWIS has sold his interest in the Anderson Herald to J. O. Donnell, formerly of Greensburg. The Herald will continue republican in politics.

THE month of January is almost without parallel for the number of its deaths of notable Americans. Among them are ex-President Hayes, Justice Lamar, General Butler, Bishop Brooks, Senator Kenna and now Mr. Blaine.

TYPOGRAPHICAL errors will creep in everywhere. You will find them even in newspapers sometimes. It has just been discovered, after the new Columbian memorial stamps have been in use for nearly a month, that the name of America's first pioneer is mispelled "Columrus" on the one cent stamp.

CHOLERA is breaking out with great virulence in the filthier cities and districts, and we have epidemics in various parts of the United States, directly attributable to filth in some shape or another. Nature, in a severe winter, has done her share toward killing the germs of disease; now let our people do the rest and there need be little fear of cholera.

REV. J. A. MILBURN and Rev. Dr. Ranger, two of the prominent ministers of Indianapolis, preached strong sermons Sunday, opposing the opening of the world's fair on the Sabbath day. Rev. Milburn said that the opening, sanctioned by the federal authorities, will be the first and most dangerous blow struck at the Christian Sabbath in this country. He said it would be introducing the Sabbath of Paris and of Berlin. Rev. Ranger said the whole inspiration of the movement in favor of the Sunday closing has been the conviction that such closing is of the utmost importance to the whole people. There is no movement to destroy the Puritan Sabbath. The stand is made solely for the civil Sunday. Where there is a breaking down of the civil Sunday there follows crime in ever increasing tide. The civil Sunday is a protection to the home and is the great vantage ground of the church. Whosoever breaks in upon the peace of the civil Sunday perils the peace of the land.

Taverns Seven Hundred Years Ago.

The following description of a drinking tavern, or groggery, is in the seventh part of the confession of the Waldenses and Albigenses, composed, at least, as far back as the year 1120, or nearly 800 years ago. It will be seen that strong drink holds its own, and that the fruits are as deadly and destroying now as they were in ancient days:

"A tavern is the fountain of sin, the school of the devil; it works wonders fitting the place. It is the manner of God to show his power in the church, and to work miracles: that is to say, to give sight to the blind, to make the lame go, the dumb to speak, the deaf to hear; but the devil doth quite contrary to all this in a tavern; for when a drunkard goeth to a tavern, he goeth uprightly, but when he cometh forth he cannot go at all, and he hath lost his sight, his hearing and his speech. The lectures that are read in this school of the devil are gluttonies, oaths, perjuries, lyings and blasphemies, and divers other villainies: for in a tavern are quarrels, slanders, contentions, murders."

Exported Paupers.

In his last annual report the secretary of the treasury says that "many societies throughout Europe have for years aided needy families to emigrate to America, and many public and private charities have assisted paupers and encouraged criminals to come. How the country has suffered and is suffering to-day from the disposition to treat this country as a boundless pauper and penal colony, we know too well. The people who assist members of the thriftless and dangerous classes to come hither no doubt regard themselves as philanthropists, but their benevolence may be suspected when it takes the form of shifting upon others the burdens which have fallen on their shoulders. In fact, remarks a Boston contemporary, it is a cheap way to dispose of paupers. The price of a man's support for six months or less out of the poor rates will buy him a steerage ticket to New York, and thus the philanthropist may rid himself forever of the care of his poor. Fortunately public sentiment on this side of the water is becoming aroused to the evil of being forced to care for those who come here because they can do nothing else. The time will come when congress also will be aroused, and will pass the laws necessary to shut the doors against undesirable immigrants.

A Thirst for Knowledge.

It is reported from Sylvania, Ga., that Marshy Lyles, an old colored woman, who lives two miles below Sylvania, and is now over seventy years of age, started to school for the first time the other morning. For three score years and ten she has walked this footstool in intellectual darkness, and there is both humor and pathos in the picture of this old woman wending her way to the little schoolhouse in the woods. Marshy has been blessed with a numerous progeny, and has children and grandchildren in numbers, and even great-grandchildren to call her name. She has always been a lover of the Scriptures and her object in starting to school now, she says, is that it may aid her in studying the Bible and thus help her on to glory. Every morning with dinner bucket and spelling book in hand she goes along with the children to the log academy and there pores over the mystic letters which seem hard enough indeed to her fettered mind.

IT is in accordance with the fitness of things that all the appurtenances and appliances of the greatest of world's fairs should be on a scale corresponding with the exhibition itself. This will be eminently the case with the steamer which is to carry passengers between Chicago and the exposition buildings at Jackson park. The "Christopher Columbus" (obviously the only name for it) was built at West Superior, Wis., and the launching of the vessel took place there a short time since in the presence of a vast crowd. It has a conical bow and a rounded back suggestive of the "whaleback" type of marine architecture, and will carry five thousand people, being, it is said, the largest excursion steamer afloat.

FOUR of President-elect Cleveland's well-known phrases appear in the last edition of "Bartlett's Familiar Quotations." One of them is the sentence containing "innocuous desuetude;" another is: "Party honesty is party expediency;" a third is his remark about the pension list of the republic being "a roll of honor," and the fourth is the most memorable sentence from the famous tariff message of 1887: "It is a condition which confronts us—not a theory." Very properly, "Public office is a public trust" is not credited to Mr. Cleveland, although many people think it originated with him.

THERE is a large body of brilliant, hopeful and industrious young men employed in the electric business in this country. So sudden has been the development of electricity as a factor in practical life that electricians have not had time to grow old, and many of the responsible men in the telephone and electric lighting business are yet below forty. Most of them are at once theorists and experimenters. Every problem presented by the application of electricity to everyday life is now the subject of study by a score of men trained in a practical school, yet acquainted with the latest discoveries in the theoretical science.

A CLEVERLY constructed little machine has been designed for the purpose of affixing stamps to letters and circulars, and by its means the process can be carried out with extraordinary rapidity. The motions of detaching, damping and fixing are all performed by one revolution of a small wheel attached to the machine. From four to five thousand letters an hour can be stamped, and one of the most important advantages of the machine is that it will register the number of letters thus treated.

EX-PRESIDENT HAYES is said to have left an estate valued at about $500,000. Nearly all his fortune came to him as a bequest from his uncle, Silas Birchard, and by careful investment and prudent management he added to it during his life. He owned a large landed estate in Fremont and also in Toledo.

PREPARATIONS are being made to celebrate in Rome the fiftieth anniversary of the elevation of Pope Leo to the archbishopric, which occurred on January 27, 1843. It is anticipated that forty thousand pilgrims will visit Rome on this occasion, four thousand of them from the United States.

A BUFFALO (N. Y.) man proposes to furnish the world's fair with an attraction in the shape of a collection of snakes. He claims to be able to show as many as two thousand different varieties.

DURING the twelve years since Gen. Hayes retired from the white house there is said to be no record of his having submitted to a political interview.

A YOUNG man of Winneconne, Wis., loved two girls. He loved one just as much as the other, and the other as much as the one. So he set them to cooking a competitive civil service dinner and married the one who got the highest average percentage.

G. W. SEAVEY

Writes an Interesting Letter From California.

INDIO, Cal., Jan. 25, 1893.

EDITOR SENTINEL:

I presume your readers remember how the Colorado river burst through its banks about two years ago and overflowed into the Colorado desert, forming a large lake, so that it was feared that the Southern Pacific railroad would be inundated by it. It is in that desert where I am at present located, and only about fifteen miles from the lake. When the topography of the country is known it is not difficult to understand this remarkable occurrence for this part of the desert was evidently a part of the Gulf of California formerly, which has been by some operation of nature cut off from the lower end and the water having evaporated has left this desert, which at its lowest point is some 300 feet below the sea and consequently below the Colorado river. So you see it is an easy thing to be below the sea and at the same time be on dry land, and it is very dry, too, as it has not rained here for nearly a year. The soil is like a dry ash heap and about as dusty. It is not sand, but a sort of sediment—very fertile if it is irrigated, but producing nothing naturally but a species of sage and musquite trees or bushes, upon which grow a sort of bean, which the Indians use for food by grinding it, pod and berry, into flour. I am sure I can not see what else they can find to live upon here as there is no game to speak of, not even a jack rabbit. There are some horned toads and rattle snakes but do not imagine they make very desirable food. However the Indians camped near here are more industrious than many of them as they work on the railroad or in the salt mines, and at present I notice they have taken a contract from the railroad to unload their coal at this station which they do for $1.50 per car of twenty-five tons. They are temperate and healthy and live very comfortably, some of them to a very old age. The other day I saw six generations, the youngest being a young pappoose lashed to a board. There were four grandmothers. I consider this the most perfect climate for invalids, especially in the winter and predict that some day its merits will be appreciated, but at present very few avail themselves of its benefits, I suppose mainly through ignorance of its merits and on account of the difficulty of obtaining accommodations. But I find here at Indio a delightful hotel and the little town is a veritable oasis in the desert, since it is the only spot for near one hundred and fifty miles where there is a well, but here there is an abundance of water, enough to supply all the stations from here to Yuma. I have been here four weeks and with the exceptions of two days have scarcely seen a cloud. The thermometer usually reaches 80 or 90 degrees every day and still it is not uncomfortably warm. The cottonwood trees are just shedding their leaves and at the same time the young buds are springing so that in a short time they will be in new dress. Garden truck is growing nicely and we shall soon have fresh vegetables; new onions are already on hand. Palm trees grow in the foot hills spontaneously wherever they can find enough moisture. It is claimed that artesian wells can be obtained over a large portion of this valley and that thereby enough water can be secured for irrigation purposes. If this is true it may be possible that sometime this desert will be transformed into a fertile country, producing vegetables and fruits several weeks in advance of any other locality.

Among the other tourists which visit this country the box car species are not the least insignificant. Every day brings in a squad of hungry, dirty travelers, whose only resource for the immediate future is what they can beg and the hope of finding a job of work at some distant point which they claim to be hunting, but which they have little desire to find and strange to say about as many are going east as there are who go west. Most of them are able-bodied, intelligent young men of American birth, and when one observes them passing day after day, and contemplates the condition of things that could bring about this result, it really produces a sad picture, for when a young man condescends to commit himself to the kind mercies of a generous public; there is little manhood left in him; certainly not enough to make a good American citizen, and considering the vast number of them the question arises: Who or what condition is responsible for their existence? It can not be a lack of work or an insufficiency of wages that drives them to surrender their manhood. There must be some deep, underlying cause in our social system that produces the tramp; some fault in our system of education and training. I wonder if, instead of our present school system, we had the industrial school, compulsory upon all children, whether we should not educate men capable at least of making their own living and of becoming good citizens. Is it not true that our present system unfits the youth for the common avocations of life, and causes a feeling of unrest, which manifests itself in the tramp, the speculator and the gambler? And is not the anarchist born in the same school? When we contemplate the rapid growth of these classes in this country it would seem about time to institute a system of investigation as to the cause, and, if possible, reverse the wheels in a safer direction. But tramps are not the only kind of live stock carried over this road which suffer for the want of food, for large train loads of cattle, which have been starved out in Arizona, pass every day going west, with scarcely enough strength left to reach the green pastures of California. It appears almost a sin to punish the poor brutes as they appear to have been. But lest I occupy too much of your space, I will break off here.

Yours, truly, G. W. SEAVEY.

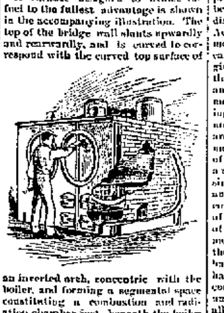
SOME OF THE LATEST DISCOVERIES BY SCIENTISTS.

Result of the Pyrometer's Test While Smelting Steel—Prevention of Smoke by Use of Steam—An Improved Cash Register.

An Improved Furnace.

A furnace designed to utilize the fuel to the fullest advantage is shown in the accompanying illustration. The top of the bridge wall slants upwardly and rearwardly, and is curved to correspond with the curved top surface of an inverted arch, concentric with the boiler, and forming a segmental space constituting a combustion and radiation chamber just beneath the boiler and extending back to the rear wall. In the rear of the bridge wall, at its base, is an air chamber extending to the rear brickwork and from one side wall to the other; the top of the chamber being arched, and this chamber is connected by numerous openings or ports with the combustion chamber above, formed by the inverted arch immediately under the boiler. Longitudinal ports from the front end of the air chamber lead to a transverse channel in the bridge wall, the latter channel connecting with channels in the side walls of the brickwork which open at their front ends to the air. Suitable doors in the rear of the brickwork give ready access to the air chamber and the combustion chamber to facilitate cleaning when desired. The large body of brickwork forming the arched top of the air chamber and the inverted arch radiating surface beneath the boiler has considerable storage capacity for heat, and in its construction allowance is made for contraction and expansion. The additional supply of air through the ports leading upward from the air chamber is designed to effect a perfect combustion of all smoke and gases.



Some Relegated Theories.

A notable instance of the modern relegation to the past of some long-established scientific theories is furnished in a paper read by the artist Prang, before one of the Boston institutions of art, on the science of colors. Thus, in regard to the commonly accepted rule that blue and yellow lights produce not green but white, it is shown by the Maxwell rotary disk that this assumption, though true of experiments with a certain particular blue and yellow, does not apply to a combination of the ideal blue and the ideal yellow. Employing for an ideal blue a blue free from both red and yellow, and for his ideal yellow one that was free from both blue and red, Mr. Prang claims to demonstrate that the usual mistake has arisen from too loose a use of the terms blue and yellow; these, as is well known, being names that are indiscriminately borne by a great variety of impure hues. By the use of the same wheel it is also demonstrated that the typical red, yellow and blue do, in combination, produce white of low luminosity—the supposed impossibility of this result heretofore being due, it is asserted, to the use of impure colors. This claim that yellow and blue are not primaries, because yellow can be obtained by the mixture of red and green, and blue by the mixture of green and violet, is likewise established, though the scientifically accepted inference from these facts is declared to be wrong.

Overestimated Temperatures.

Recent investigations made by means of the pyrometer show that the temperatures which occur in melting steel, and in other industrial operations, have been overestimated. It is now demonstrated that both the amount of light emitted from a body and the quantity of heat required to heat it, increase much more rapidly than the temperature. The calorimetric method has been that most frequently adopted for determining high temperatures, the assumption being made in this case that the specific heat of the iron rods or balls used is constant, which assumption, however, is inaccurate. In the case of the flame of the Bessemer converter, the temperature of the issuing flame has been recorded as 2,000 degrees, Cent., because platinum appears to melt rapidly in it. This, again, fails to coincide with the outcome of recent experiments, the fact being, as now represented, that platinum does not really fuse in the flame, but only appears to do so, on account of its alloying itself with drops of molten steel carried over by the blast.

An Automatic Feed Lubricator.

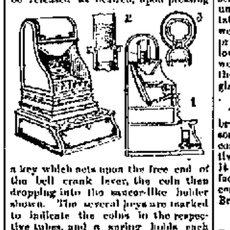
Mention is made in the technical papers of the introduction of an ingenious automatic drop feed lubricator, which, while supplying a number of bearings automatically with lubricant, allows of the amount received by each being minutely regulated. It consists of a tank containing the supply of oil and furnished with a number of outlets at the bottom, which are connected to the several bearings by pipes. A horizontal cylindrical plug is contained in a bored recess on the lower part of the oil tank, and one end passing through a stuffing box in one side of the tank is fitted with a ratchet wheel operated by a pawl in the usual manner. The rotating plug is provided with a number of diametrically arranged holes which pass nearly through the body of the plug and are screwed internally to receive small screwed plugs provided with screwdriver slot. By screwing these plugs up or down the depth of the several oil receptacles in the main plug can be adjusted with great accuracy. The oil flows into these cavities when they are uppermost, but with the rotation of the main plug containing them they are inverted, their contents are discharged, each into the outlet to which they pertain. A branch supplementary pipe is fitted to each discharge pipe for the purpose of admitting air and allowing direct lubrication by hand, should occasion require.

Metallic Alloy.

Some valuable specimens of metallic alloys, obtained according to a new principle of combination, have lately been the subject of examination and discussion before the Amsterdam Royal Academy of Sciences. These specimens were the result of experiments carried on by a chemist of Liege, Belgium, and were exhibited as proofs that, by repeated reduction to powder and subjection to great pressure, metals may be united into alloys having properties quite remarkable and unlike those of alloys, which are produced by the ordinary methods of fusion. In the case of the specimens referred to one was of a reddish color, formed by compressing a mixture of nine parts of copper and one of zinc; the other, obtained by compressing a mixture of seven parts of copper and three parts of zinc, was of a pale yellow color; the reddish metal was a little softer in texture than common brass, the other was harder and brittle. Both specimens had been filed up twice, and again consolidated by pressure, though the union was not complete, and both the alloys contained great quantities of yellow mixture, with particles of copper and zinc. The additional statement is also made that though there was evidence of a flow of the yellow mixture and the zinc there was nothing to indicate a truly liquid state of the alloy or of its copper.

An Improved Change Maker.

A device to facilitate the making of any desired amount of coin change is shown in the illustration and has been patented. In the upper portion of the casing, which has an inclosing cover, are six tubes adapted to receive the various coins—dollars, fifty-cent pieces, twenty five cent pieces, ten-cent pieces, nickels and cents. Each tube has a slot in front, that the coins may be seen, and all the tubes connect at their lower ends with a chute leading to a change table. By means of a push bar or slide, connected at its rear end with the long arm of a bell crank lever, as shown in the sectional view, Fig. 1, the lowermost coin in each tube may be released as desired, upon pressing a key which acts upon the free end of the bell crank lever, the coin then dropping into the saucer-like holder shown. The several keys are marked to indicate the coins in the respective tubes, and a spring holds each of the bell crank levers in such position that the push bar is normally retained out of engagement with the coin. Additional keys are provided, each having at its lower end a bar, by which several levers may be actuated at the same time by a single key to make collectively a desired amount of change. In order to fill the coin tubes a receiver is provided in the lower part of the casing, in which is a set of receiving tubes, shown in section and plan views in Fig. 2 and 3. In a circular hollow offset near the lower end of each tube is pivoted a pair of tongs, the handle ends of which are pressed apart by a spring, the inner ends extending into the tube to support a coin dropped upon them. The several tubes are of sizes corresponding with the coins to be received, and when one of the upper tubes is empty it is supplied by removing the filling tube and placing it in the upper tube, when, by pressing upon the handle ends of the tongs, the coins pass out of one tube into the other.



Smelting Iron Sands.

The smelting of iron sands, in those regions where such material abounds, has lately attracted no little interest, and California papers publish an account of the charging of a blast furnace at Onehunga with the iron sand ore; a tapping took place, and the result was that several tons of ore were obtained from the furnace, the metal being pronounced to be workable iron of first-class quality—a portion of the molten metal being converted into small castings, showing complete adaptability. The "bricks" with which the furnace was thus charged were an admixture of iron sand and clay, and were manufactured some sixteen years ago. It is claimed that the yield of iron is equal to 50 per cent. of the weight of the bricks, and it is believed that iron of a high class may be in this way economically produced—the development of an important industry, in fact, being probable, as the west coast abounds with inexhaustible quantities of raw material in deposits of iron sand.

Money Burned in a Pocketbook.

Queer things happen in this world, and the burning of the railroad station at Dover has added another to the list. When the safe was opened the papers, tickets, etc., were found in perfect condition. In a leather pocketbook in the safe there had been placed quite a sum of money, and this was found burned to a crisp, which shows that money in a paper envelope would be safer in the fire than in a leather pocketbook. It may be that the safe was affected more by the fire on one side than on the other.—[Portland (Me.) Argus.

An excellent remedy: "Two of my children have been much troubled with neuralgia all winter. They used Salvation Oil and, a few applications produced a complete cure. I consider it an excellent remedy. John H. Jones, Deputy Inspector, Tobacco Warehouse, No. 4, Baltimore, Md."

Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard

Railroading in Mexico.

"I think I can entertain you for a moment," said R. W. Boddington. "About two years ago I was running an engine on the Mexican National between Laredo and Monterey. At that time if a locomotive ran over a greaser, no matter how worthless he might be or how badly he needed killing, the engineer and fireman were promptly arrested and thrown into a dungeon, where they were liable to languish for a year or two before they were brought to trial. Now a Mexican prison is the sub-cellar of the bottomless pit.

"I had one dose of Mexican prison fare and I can taste it yet. One day we were coming north and at Bustamante we hit a greaser who had filled his yellow hide full of pulque and lain down on the right of way. Bustamante was a small place and we made no stop. There was a telegraph office at the next station in charge of an American operator. I told him my little tale of woe, and he wired the train dispatcher to clear the track into Laredo, for old 47 was coming, and coming with both feet working. I cut loose from the train and put the lever down among the tallow pots.

"It was an even 100 miles to an inch from Huisache to Nuevo Laredo, the track was new and firm, and old 47 was a bird. She seemed to realize that her rider was in danger, and lent to her work like a quarter horse. The telegraph poles looked like a tight board fence, and the little way stations went whizzing past like mile posts. I made the run of 100 miles in just 130 minutes, the fastest time ever made on a Mexican road. The natives still refer to old 47 as the 'flying devil.' I crossed the International bridge to Laredo, and there my fireman and I bade old 47 goodby and struck for the North.—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE question of a man's right to devise his estate to any particular person is debatable from a natural standpoint. The law accords him that right, but the State may say what part of the fortune it will take to itself for seeing the transfer peaceably made. European countries very generally levy an inheritance tax.

RAILWAYS AND SHOPS.

Several Railway Men Injured Last Night.

The Local and Personal Gossip of the Shops as Revealed by the Reporter's Note Book.

Yesterday and today were unlucky days for several railway employes, as will be seen by the following list of casualties:

At an early hour this morning west bound freight train No. 79 dashed into east bound freight No. 66 at Arcola, smashing the pilots and headlights of both locomotives and demolishing one freight car and blockading the tracks for several hours. The engines were No. 631, hauling freight train 79, and No. 16, hauling train 66. The former was in charge of Engineer J. E. Rondot and Fireman L. Neuman, and the latter in charge of Engineer John Money and Fireman George Lamb. It appears that train 66 was entitled to the right of way but Engineer Rondot, of train 79, who had been laying off for over a month, had forgotten all about the passing arrangements and instead of taking the side track at Arcola he kept upon the main line with the above result. The trains were running very slowly when the collision occurred and the trainmen had ample time to jump, so none were injured in the least. The wreck car and crew were called out and at 9:30 o'clock they returned, bringing the damaged freight car with them. Passenger trains Nos 4 and 25 were delayed one and three hours respectively by the wreck. The unfortunate trains were in charge of Conductor George Auer, of No. 79, and Conductor William Timmis, of No. 66.

MR. HOSLER EXPLAINS.

The following letter explains itself:

CHICAGO, Jan. 30, 1893.

Editor of THE SENTINEL:

I wish to correct the article in THE SENTINEL concerning the recent accident to myself, which I read while lying in the hospital in this city. I was not killed, as stated, but must acknowledge that my injuries are very severe. My left leg was amputated six inches below the knee, my arm was broken in two places between the shoulder and elbow, three fingers were broken and the flesh stripped from the palm of the hand. I also received four wounds on the head. I was going to the round house to go out on my regular run. It was storming and I did not notice my engine, No. 91, which was standing on the turntable, until I was within a few feet of her. As I attempted to cross the track to mount the engine from the fireman's side, it backed up, pushing the tender over me. The right back drive wheel took my leg off, when I caught hold of a chain and dragged my body along until the engine came to a stand still. I am getting along nicely and hope to be with my Fort Wayne friends in a few months. I am at the Mercy hospital, corner Calumet avenue and Twenty-sixth street.

J. W. HOSLER.

His injuries are painful, but not necessarily dangerous. He was pinched between two cars, one of which had no deadwoods on it, but managed to throw himself beyond the reach of the wheels.

William W. Wilhelm, through baggagemaster on the Pennsylvania lines between Pittsburg and New York, is seventy-two years of age, and is the oldest baggageman in point of service on the Pennsylvania system.

M. B. Hardendorf, who held a position in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, and who was taking a vacation to enable him to place his notion store on Calhoun street in running order, has decided to quit the shop entirely and devote his entire time to the store.

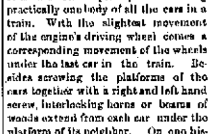
The Kansas City Times, of January 25, says: "W. J. Buckley, of the Fort Wayne Electric company, of Fort Wayne, Ind., submitted a third proposition to the board of public works yesterday afternoon. On the street lights Mr. Buckley's last proposition would save the city $3,760 a year, but the board wants to hear from other companies before taking final action."

The Atlas engine works, at Indianapolis, are building a monster engine to run the big dynamo at the world's fair, the largest dynamo ever constructed. The engine will be a double compound tandem engine and 1,500 horse power, engine to run the dynamo. The fly wheel of this double engine will weigh 40,000 pounds. In every part the engine will be highly finished, and a number of improvements which the mechanical engineer of the works has been laboring on for years will be introduced, having already been successfully tested on an engine of less capacity in the company's own works.

Several railroad projects are now on foot in Texas, most important of which is the Texas Midland, as proposed by Hettie Green, the purchaser of the Central Texas and Northwestern. This railroad is now completed from Garrett to Roberts and from Waco to Bremond. The proposed extension will run from Garrett to Waco, thence to Austin via Belton and Georgetown, and on to San Antonio, from Roberts to Paris, where a connection will be made with the St. Louis and San Francisco road, thence to Little Rock via Hot Springs, Ark., where another connection will be made with the Memphis and Little Rock. This will give a direct line from San Antonio to all points in the east, traversing one of the richest and most productive territories in Texas.

In speaking about car couplers, the Chicago Herald says: "Couplers for passenger cars have reached a higher state of perfection than those for freight cars, but along with this progress has gone an increased cost, which prohibits the adoption of some of them. For instance, the Blackstone coupler, invented by President Blackstone, of the Alton, is admittedly the very best in use. The patent has long since run out, but no other road than the Alton in the United States uses the coupler. It is based on the principle of making practically one body of all the cars in a train. With the slightest movement of the engine's driving wheel comes a corresponding movement of the wheels under the last car in the train. Besides screwing the platforms of the cars together with a right and left hand screw, interlocking horns or beams of woods extend from each car under the platform of its neighbor. On one historical occasion all the wheels were thrown from under one end of an Alton coach, and the loss was discovered only by accident at a station fifteen miles further on. No passenger would have known the difference if both trucks of the car had been lost, as the interlocking horns would have carried the body of the coach easily and safely. The first cost of the device and the time required to couple and uncouple have alone prevented its adoption by other roads."



Get rid of it, if you have Catarrh. Don't merely relieve it for a time with poisonous, irritating snuffs and strong caustic solutions. While you seem to be getting help, you may be getting harm. Stopped in this way, it's usually only driven to the lungs. You're worse off than ever.

But you can get rid of it completely, with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. That's been proved over and over again, in thousands of the most hopeless cases. By its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, Catarrh in the Head and all Catarrhal affections are perfectly and permanently cured.

Some physicians will tell you that Catarrh can't be cured. They mean that they can't cure it. Dr. Sage's Remedy can. And to prove that they believe it, the proprietors of this medicine will pay $500 for an incurable case of Catarrh. They don't see one often but they'll pay the money when they do.

MADE BRAVE BY TORTURE.

A Band of Indians who Followed Their Leader to Death.

"When I was a boy about ten or twelve years of age," said an old Indian named Se-chi-tee, "there lived a band of Indians known as 'Staitans, or Flyers.' That was about 1804. These Staitans, it appeared from his story, only numbered about one hundred braves, but they were the most ferocious of all the American Indians. They were Indian outlaws composed of Cheyennes and Sioux. They were the best-mounted horsemen of the plains. They were the best riders. They moved with the big herds of buffalo. They never surrendered. They faced every foe and conquered or died. Their squaws rode in the ranks at their side and spared no one. They had no flag of truce, and neither gave nor asked quarter.

"The secret of the wonderful valor and endurance of this handful of flying horsemen was in the terrible tortures which they inflicted on each other. They were the originators in early times of the 'Huck-e-a-yun,' or torture dance, in the midst of which a warrior was hanged to a beam by the pectoral muscles of the breast, under which a stone knife had been passed, leaving a bleeding slit, through which a rope of horse-hair was drawn and fastened to the wooden toggles that suspended him high in the air.

"The custom spread and was practiced by the the Sioux, Gros Ventres, Nez Perces, Mandans, Cheyennes and other Indians of the plains and surrounding country. This band of braves, in the early part of this century, was exterminated near Lodge Pole Creek, on the North Platte River, probably by the Sioux. They had their imitators in the 'Band of Canoes,' one of the three bands of the South Assiniboine. Many years ago this fierce band, while out hunting the buffalo, got caught and bewildered with the helpless brutes themselves in the snows of the prairies, and sought the shelter of the woods by Lake Mandan. Soon they were surrounded by the Mandans and Gros Ventres.

"Seeing escape was impossible and slaughter inevitable, their war chief, Tall Bull, cried out to his warriors: 'Follow me!' They followed where he led in single file. Before them opened an airhole through the ice, where a whirling eddy circled in the swift current of the water of the lake. With a proud, defiant, stride Tall Bull stepped up to the icy door, and disappeared at a single plunge. One by one the plumed warriors passed from view at each successive plunge, until at last they had all sunk out of sight below the smooth, icy surface of the haunted Lake of Mandan.

"There," said Se-chi-tee, "in that act you have the secret of the 'Huck-e-a-yun.' To fail in it is to be counted as a woman. Torture is what builds the high cheek bones."—[Boston Herald.

An Autopsy on an Elephant.

An autopsy was held recently at Baraboo, Wis., on the body of the mammoth elephant Zip that died a few nights ago in winter quarters here. Professor Donaldson, of the Chicago University, and Professor Akely, of Milwaukee, performed the operation, the purpose of which was to ascertain the cause of the animal's death. Although formerly of the most tractable disposition, Zip for three days before his death had been in a state of frenzy and had no appetite.

The opportunity for a scientist to dissect an elephant comes so seldom that Messrs. Donaldson and Akely eagerly accepted this chance. The autopsy was performed in one end of the quarters specially curtained off to prevent the other elephants from seeing what was going on. A sharp knife was first drawn through the tough skin under the stomach the entire length of the animal, and then the hide was removed. An incision was then made in the stomach, and Professor Donaldson, who was wielding the scalpel, uttered an exclamation of surprise. "There certainly can't be a bone in the elephant's stomach," he said, "and yet the knife strikes something apparently as hard as iron." The next moment the cause of the professor's astonishment was plain. As the ligaments parted, the spectators crowding around could see links of a big chain. There was no longer any doubt as to what had caused the elephant's death. Professors Donaldson and Akely both declared it was a marvel that the animal had lived so long with so large a foreign substance in its stomach. The action of the elephant in swallowing the chain was also considered remarkable. It was four feet long and weighed over ninety pounds. Zip weighed eight tons and stood nearly twelve feet high.—[New York Tribune.

THE PASSING SHOW.

SOME UNUSUAL HAPPENINGS OF RECENT OCCURRENCE.

HOW THE LAW IS ABUSED IN NEW YORK STATE.

Official Invasion of a Woman's Home by Officers—The Sensational Escapade of a Pretty Missouri Girl—In Male Attire.

THE PEOPLE OF A New York town were treated to an unusual and interesting scene the other day. After relinquishment for a consideration by Alfred Nozon of Ballston Spa of all right, title or claim to the estate known as "Compo," at Westport, Conn., and the recording of a deed giving Mrs. Harriet A. Trubee lawful possession, comparative quietness maintained in and about that much abused place. It was finally broken, however, by Hugh Masterson, a detective from New York, who, with Deputy Sheriff Newman of Stamford, and five others, entered the "Compo" grounds and broke into the house, and to the bedroom of Mrs. Trubee, who was within, arranging her toilet. Hearing loud voices in her house, and footsteps, she closed and bolted her door. It proved to be little protection, as the officials demanded admittance, which being refused, they obtained an ax and other implements and forcibly demolished the frail barrier. Masterson, on entering the room, informed the occupant that she must prepare instantly to quit the premises. Mrs. Trubee declined, and asked by what authority her house was thus invaded. She was told that her visitor was an authority from Hartford, Conn., and that he had come prepared to execute in full the work assigned him, and should make no further explanations. He therefore seized Mrs. Trubee, and despite her loud protestations bore her from the room down the front stairway, and from the grounds to the street. A friend of Mrs. Trubee and the domestics were in like manner forcibly ejected. After securely locking every gate leading to the premises and placing one Joseph Masterson and two men named Waterbury and Johnson to guard the house, Masterson and company departed. This action was performed without service of any papers, the reading of any legal process and absolutely without any legal authority.

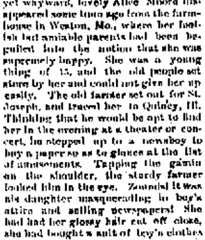
Beautiful, intelligent, graceful, coy yet wayward, lovely Alice Moore disappeared some time ago from the farmhouse in Weston, Mo., where her foolish but amiable parents had been beguiled into the notion that she was supremely happy. She was a young thing of 15, and the old people set store by her and could not give her up easily. The old farmer set out for St. Joseph, and traced her to Quincy, Ill. Thinking that he would be apt to find her in the evening at a theater or concert, he stepped up to a newsboy to buy a paper so as to glance at the list of amusements. Tapping the gamin on the shoulder, the sturdy farmer looked him in the eye. Zounds! It was his daughter masquerading in boy's attire and selling newspapers! She had had her glossy hair cut off close, she had bought a suit of boy's clothes in a store, and was as jaunty a newsboy as ever turned a penny. Gentle



DISGUISED AS A NEWSBOY.

Alice went home with her papa to the old homestead, much wiser for her short engagement with the world's adversities.

An Arkansas Lynching.

Two men guilty of an atrocious murder have just been lynched at Cotton Plant in Arkansas. They were Paul Scruggs and Henry Allan, who recently murdered, robbed and then burned Rube Atkinson, his housekeeper and her little daughter two and one-half miles west of Cotton Plant. They were taken from jail at Cotton Plant by a mob 200 strong, and, after being conducted to the scene of the killing and burning, were strung up to the limb of a convenient tree and their bodies pierced with bullets fired into them by the mob.

GEN. DYRENFORTH, the Texas cloud puncher, calls himself a scientist, and all because of his unsuccessful efforts to knock rain out of the sky by exploding dynamite in the upper air. It is much as if a man who spends his time in chasing the perpetual motion phantasm should call himself an inventor and a discoverer.

Fruit House Prices for 1893.

There has taken place some considerable revolutions in the prices of merchandise the past year, and which is most likely to continue for some time to come. As a rule the tendency, with the exception of pork and potatoes, has favored the consumer. Flour is remarkably cheap. With flour at $3.75 per bbl. and potatoes at 90c per bushel, it is easily determined which is the most economical. Flour, in most instances, will be much more used than formerly. So is pork and beef. When pork reaches the price it has now, beef will be more used.

The same rule applies to Tea and Coffee. Coffee has ruled high of late years, more from speculation than the scarcity, and the high price has increased very greatly the consumption of Tea, for Teas have not advanced for several years, but rather have declined. The higher grade Teas which formerly sold at $1.00 per lb., can be had for 60c per lb., running down to 15c per lb. But in teas, the best quality is usually the more satisfactory in the end. Although we sell a good high flavored Young Hyson at 35c lb.

SUGARS—Orleans and Refined.

The Sugar market has kept very steady. The combination that now controls the market will no doubt keep them about as they are. Prices are so low that no complaint can be heard on that head, but people do complain about a system of monopoly which has made it possible for a set of men to control the price of sugar or anything else which the people use, yet this is just what is now being done. The people are absolutely at their mercy and the monopoly can put the price up or down at their pleasure. The only relief to be had from such a state of affairs is not to buy and regulate them and control them by such sharp measures as interstate commerce, etc. The remedy is to wipe out these crushers. This will abolish all such combinations and place mankind on an equal footing. Sugar prices at present are:

Hats and Furnishings were ever offered you before and probably never will be again in Fort Wayne. Ask your neighbor to show you the $20 suit or Overcoat that he bought for $11.00, or the Boy's Suit or Overcoat that was well worth $5.00, which he purchased for $2.50.

Hats, Caps, Underwear, Shirts!

JACK'S LATEST FREAK.

Relieved a Cincinnati Woman of Her Tresses While Asleep.

If the story told by a Cincinnati woman is true "Jack, the Hair Cutter," has adopted new tactics. The young lady's wealth of beautiful hair was cut off from her head while she was asleep in her room one day last week. The victim is Mrs. Clara Sigman, the wife of Mr. A. A. Sigman, a well-known citizen. The case is a rather mysterious one. Mr. Sigman went to work at 7 o'clock in the morning, leaving his wife alone in her room. About 10 o'clock she threw herself on the bed suffering with a slight headache. She did not expect to fall asleep, so she left her door unlocked. She dozed off into a sound sleep, however, and when she awoke she started to push her hand back through her hair and was astounded to find that it was nearly all gone. As she looked around she observed some of the hair lying on the pillow, and also noticed some on the chair in front of the bed. She says that her hair was unusually long, falling down as far as her waist, and she was very proud of it. At the realization of her loss she began to weep. Then she ran down stairs to the landlady on the first floor and told her that her hair had been cut off while she was asleep. The landlady looked at her head and noticed that it was nearly all cut off, so she went upstairs to her room with her to see if some loss was not concealed in it. They found no person in the room. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon Mrs. Sigman went to her husband and told him about the robbery of her hair, and he reported it to the police, who will try to solve the mysterious case.

When sufficiently cool stir in a well-beaten egg, spread thin in a greased pan and bake till a nice brown in a quick oven. A tablespoonful of melted butter may be added for shortening if desired.

The Mother's Love Conquered.

There was an unusual scene in Judge Horton's court, Chicago, recently. It arose on a petition by John Bitler, a clothing merchant at No. 288 Clark Street, to adopt little Leah Benjaminowski. The mother came from Russia eighteen months ago and found herself unable to support her two children. She consented to the adoption, but when the matter was called in court her mother's love got the mastery and the poor woman rushed out of the court room, weeping bitterly. On her return she told Judge Horton, through an interpreter, that she desired a written agreement to see the child once a month! The court, however, had not the power to exact such an agreement and the Bitlers were opposed to granting it. Upon the refusal of the court the mother grasped the little girl in her arms and rushed from the court.

The Emperor of Russia is a hearty eater. Even at breakfast, tea, eggs, ham and beer must be placed on his table. At luncheon, which is eaten about 11 o'clock, the Czar takes bouillon, with eggs, mutton chops and cold game. As a rule, at this meal he drinks three cups of strong coffee. At 3 o'clock he eats a dish of milk and rice. Dinner is served at 6 o'clock. It is a hearty meal, after the French pattern. Before going to bed he stills the pangs of hunger with tea and coffee.
